

Calypso Farm & Ecology Center is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization (EIN 92-0169368). Our mission is to encourage local food production and environmental awareness through hands-on education in natural and farming ecosystems.

We hope to partner with you in 2019 to promote a healthy community and local business economy!

With your sponsorship, you can help us serve thousands of our community members each year: teaching, learning, and growing with children and adults through hands-on learning, and working to make fresh food more available to all.

Your sponsorship will help make these educational programs and food access initiatives possible in 2019:

Farm Field Trips & Camps: Schools, community groups and campers explore local ecology and sustainable agriculture through field trips and farm camps from spring to fall, bringing up to 2000 individuals to the farm each season. In 2019, we are striving to engage more families and seniors in our Farm Discovery Guide Program, training them in leading groups of children on farm-based field trips!

Annual Open House: This exciting public event invites the community to visit the farm to see how food is grown, and gain inspiration to learn more about gardening and ecology! Upwards of 400 community members attend the Open House each summer!

School Gardens: The school gardens are experiential learning environments for teachers and students throughout the year, and food production gardens during the summer. The gardens host the Engaging Alaskan Teens in Gardening (EATinG) Program, a free summer gardening program for youth, as well as youth summer camp sessions.

Southside Community Farmer's Market: This outdoor market in the South Cushman neighborhood features locally grown and produced food, and strives to make fresh food available to all community members by accepting WIC, senior coupons and a discount for Food Stamp users.

Thank you for supporting a healthier community!
